ADMINISTRATION

ON THE wall before me hangs a picture entitled "Get Started on the Right Foot." It occurs to me that this would be a very appropriate slogan for a group of young Americans to follow as they "commence" their post high school journey through this very unsettled world.

I believe this first right step should be a proper attitude or, if you choose to call it, a state of mind. To be a useful, successful American citizen one must have an American, democratic attitude consisting of respect for the positions of our duly elected or appointed officials. This may also be expressed as the respect for and compliance with the will and decision of the majority. Upon such a philosophy has our country been built and our institution been formulated.

You Seniors have come a long way together. Now you must make a decision for

"Before thy feet the ways divide:
One path leads up to heights sublime;
Downward the other slopes, where bide
The refuse and the wrecks of Time.
Choose then, nor falter at the start,
O choose to the nobler path and part!"

Be thou the guardian of the weak,
Of the unfriended, thou the friend;
No guerdon for thy valor seek,
No end beyond the avowed end.
Wouldst thou thy godlike power preserve?
Be godlike in the will to serve!"

GEORGE HAROLD MORGART,
Supervising Principal.

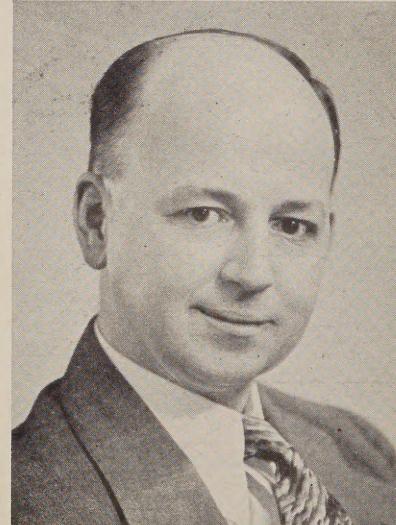

WITH the graduation of the Class of 1939, our school celebrates its fifth anniversary. Our community cannot but be better for the influence of these young citizens who have made the most of the opportunities for improvement offered by the school.

Graduates, as you begin your careers in the world beyond school may the words of our Alma Mater be your constant reminder:

"Ridley Township, may we ever,
Keep thy name most high—
You have set a standard for us—
May it never die."

RALPH BOYD SHARER,

Principal.

THE CLASS ADVISERS

AS AN adviser to the Class of 1939 for four years, it has been a great pleasure and source of satisfaction to watch the members of this class grow and develop. I congratulate you upon the splendid work which you have done so willingly and faithfully in school. As future citizens traveling along the new highway of social responsibility, you are entering a land blessed with a new social climate—new social forces, new social duties. The pattern of national life by which America was fashioned was once a vision. Seniors, you are now a part of those who are engaged in the glorious labor of turning that vision into reality.

"We are all inventors, each sailing out on a voyage of discovery, guided each by a private chart of which there is no duplicate, the world is all gates, all opportunities."

May you all find success and happiness in life.

FRANCES GILLESPIE WALTON.

COMPETITION between individuals in the world of today is probably more strenuous than ever before. To succeed in his chosen profession a man must contend, both intellectually and physically, with the rivalry of a much more advanced group. Considering this fact, it is of the utmost importance that the student, when he enters into the turmoil of the economic world, be equipped with the proper health to withstand the strain of competition.

Sight your place in life and ever ready to further your learning, seek to attain it. Your experiences with one another and with those close to you in your preparatory years of learning are experiences which you should never forget.

My wish is that you remember your class motto: "They conquer who believe they can."

JESSE HAROLD BREWSTER.

|| LIKE to look upon you who are graduating this year in the same light that Oliver Wendell Holmes regarded the chambered nautilus. This animal has a spiral shell and is a native of the Indian Ocean. As the body of the nautilus grows, the old shell must be cast aside and a new one formed. So it is with the Class of 1939. Your education is like the shell of the nautilus. You have learned the lessons we tried to teach. Now you are ready to pass through broader thresholds. As you enter the new doorways of knowledge, think a while of this inspiration which the poet received from the life of the chambered nautilus:

"Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low-vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length are free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!"

ELIZABETH RITA FRIEL.

National Honor Society

THE National Honor Society has been established in secondary schools for the purpose of recognizing and rewarding outstanding students whose scholarship is high and whose presence and personality has shown a fine influence in the school. Election into this society is the highest honor that a high school student can receive.

This spring the first anniversary of the organization of the Ridley Township High School Chapter was celebrated with the installation of eleven Seniors and six Juniors. The five Seniors who were inducted into the society last year conducted the ceremony for the new members. The Seniors judged worthy of the honor were George Melanchuk, Anne Dorsanio, Doris Wager, Paul Williams, Nettie Lazinsky, Vera Tomsky, Grant Rigby, Elsa Voigt, Natalie Fetrone, Josephine Jennis, and Wilbur Wamsley. The Juniors honored were Mildred Reidinger, Chester Bartusiak, Dorcas Lloyd, James Wilkes, Anna Miller, and William Dickerson. The charter members conducting the ceremony were Betty Van Ormer, Elva Mae Brookes, June Ellis, Walter Konyk, and Joseph Crews.

The four points on which the student is judged are character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Recognition in character may be gained by demonstrating those qualities that are indispensable to fine young manhood and womanhood. Scholarship is determined by one's ranking in the upper third of the class. Leadership is interpreted as demonstrating a degree of initiative in classroom activities which leads to higher scholarship for all; successfully holding any position of responsibility; and contributing ideas which may be incorporated into the civic life of the school. Service is defined as a willingness to render cheerfully and enthusiastically any service to the school whenever called upon; a willingness to uphold scholarship and maintain a loyal school attitude; and a readiness to show courtesy to visitors and to assist students behind in their work.

"It is such qualities as these that have lighted up the pages of history, blazed the trail of the pioneer, and led the way for all mankind to follow."

BETTY VAN ORMER.

Class Poem

If I could look in the dim beyond
And see what the future holds,
If I could raise the curtain of time
Or push aside the folds,
If I could see across the years
To what I'll be some day,
My life would be a simpler thing
I'd know each step of the way.
Then I could tell what I ought to do,
I'd know where my duty lay,
I'd live the way I ought to live
And give my best to each day.
But since I cannot see ahead
Or look beyond the bend,
I'll try to live the best I can
Until I've reached the end.

JUNE ELLIS.

CLASS HISTORY

CHAPTER I

Beginnings. All history must have a beginning; ours began in the fall of 1934. The entire student body of the new Ridley Township High School consisted of approximately eight hundred students, one hundred and eighty of which constituted the eighth grade. All were eager to start on what seemed a new adventure in their modern high school.

When we were admitted to the building, the happy expectant expressions of the pupils quickly changed to amazed bewildered ones as the students threaded their way cautiously through a maze of electricians, carpenters, ladders, and overhanging wires.

Because of the fact that most of us had come from four different grammar schools, we knew little about each other, and consequently, the only organization we had in the eighth grade was in the various home rooms.

CHAPTER II

Development. Not until our Freshman year did we become fully organized with the election of Howard Thorne, president; John Lister, vice-president; Doris Wager, secretary; and Sybil Walls and Vincent Ramsey, treasurers. Our class advisers were Mrs. Frances Walton, Miss Elizabeth Friel, Miss Adelaide Chesnut, Mr. Harold Brewster, and Mr. William Slezak.

Our first social affair was a Christmas party on December 19, in charge of one of our class advisers, Mrs. Walton.

As we were unable to finance a play of our own, the Holmes Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Society consented to give a play for us on March 14, entitled "George in a Jam." The class co-operated well with these young people on the arrangements to make it a successful undertaking.

To conclude our Freshman activities we held a picnic on June 10 at Morton Park Pool, with a large number of our class attending.

CHAPTER III

Growth. We resumed our duties in the fall with our class officers Anne Dorsanio, president; John Lister, vice-president; Doris Wager, secretary; and Sybil Walls, treasurer. We were the first class in the history of the school to have a girl as our leader. Mrs. Walton, Miss Friel, and Mr. Brewster were appointed as permanent class advisers.

Our first attempt to raise funds for the treasury was to sell megaphones at the football games. This enterprise has been carried on by our class from year to year. Our next venture, the selling of Christmas cards, proved that there was no end to our success.

At last came our three one-act plays. "Toll," coached by Miss Elizabeth Friel, was the most dramatic one-act play presented in our school. "Buddy Buys an Orchid," coached by Miss Virginia Coleman, and "The Pampered Darling," coached by Mrs. Frances Walton, were hilarious comedies.

The last social affair of our Sophomore year was a party on May 7, under the direction of Mrs. Walton.

It was customary to have the election of class officers for the next year at this time, so the election was held with the following results: Walter Konyk, president; Joseph Crews, vice-president; Mary Sloan, secretary; and Nettie Lazinsky, treasurer.

CHAPTER IV

Improvement. The Junior year is generally the year when the activities of a class become more numerous. Through the efforts of our class advisers, who remained the same as the previous year, and our very able class officers, most of our activities were a decided success.

Our annual class party on October 22 celebrated the Hallowe'en season. Prizes were awarded for the best-dressed, the most original, and the most comical costumes.

The Junior Play, "A Busy Honeymoon," was capably directed by Miss Friel. The play was both a financial and social success.

At last came the reception given for the Seniors by the Juniors. The total attendance was approximately one hundred and eighty. The very fine dinner was prepared by the vocational students.

Another happy occasion was the Prom given for the Juniors by the Seniors. The beautifully decorated auditorium and the delightful music added to the success of this affair.

June and vacation days soon rolled around and found us well on our way toward our goal.

CHAPTER V

Perfection. Seniors at last! We have reached our goal! As officers to pilot us through our final year, we elected for president, Joseph Crews; vice-president, Frank Kunkle; secretary, Doris Wager; and treasurer, Nettie Lazinsky. The president, having appointive power, named Madge Cianci, Leonard Stanley, and Robert Guss as representatives-at-large.

Green and gold were selected by the class as colors, and "They conquer who believe they can" was chosen as a motto. The carnation was named the class flower.

The first task of the executive board was to appoint the standing committees for the year, every member of the Senior class being placed on at least one committee.

Again this year we had our annual Hallowe'en party on October 21, followed by the Senior skating party on November 17.

The next important event of the year was the Senior Class Play, a rip-roarin' comedy in three acts, entitled "Second Childhood." The play was ably coached by Miss Friel.

We sponsored another skating party on February 15, with the members of other classes, as well as our own, supporting us.

One of our most outstanding affairs was the semi-formal Senior dance held on March 17.

At last came the event to which we had all looked forward for five years—our Washington trip on May 8, 9, and 10. Accompanied by our three class advisers and Mr. Guss, a large number of the class enjoyed a wonderful three days' tour of our Nation's Capital.

On May 19, the Juniors continued the custom of giving a reception to the Seniors. In turn, the Seniors held a very successful Prom for the Juniors on May 26. Music was furnished by Ethel Nagy's orchestra.

Our Class Night program on June 9 was the most unusual ever held in the high school. Entitled "The Senior Follies," it included almost every Senior either in the play or on a committee. Instead of having the Class Night Banquet before the Class Night Exercises as has been the custom in previous years, the banquet was held on June 10.

The Baccalaureate Exercises on June 11, and the greatest event of all, Commencement, which took place on June 12, brought our school activities to a close.

It is fitting that our class wish every other class in Ridley Township High School the happiness we have derived from companionship with our classmates and teachers.

HERE, on this twelfth day of June in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine, we, the Class of One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Thirty-nine of the Ridley Township High School, do draw up our last Will and Testament.

Be it known that we desire to have these bequests:

To the Board of Education, our gratitude for their bountiful educational provisions.

To Mr. Morgart, Supervising Principal, we leave the pleasant memories of our five years' stay in Ridley Township.

To Mr. Sharer, Principal, our deepest appreciation for his watchful care during our high school career.

To the entire Faculty of Ridley Township we give our heartfelt thanks and our vote of appreciation for their efforts and cooperation.

To the remaining classes of Ridley Township we leave our ability to accomplish what we set out to do.

To the office girls we express our hope that they may find able assistants to take the place of those who have graduated.

To the custodians we leave only memories (which they are still trying to erase) of ourselves.

Last but not least, to our Advisers we leave our many thanks for their friendly counsel.

And we further devise:

I, Neil Abbott, do bequeath my ability to get on the teachers' nerves to George Dinkelacker.

I, Charlotte Adams, leave my love of "trucking around" to Delia Wynn.

I, Betty Armstrong, do bequeath my title of "The All-American Girl" to Edna Stickley.

I, Helen Boretsky, leave my many different hair styles to Peggy Abbott.

I, Elva Brookes, do bequeath my love of books to Marie Stilling.

I, Edward Brown, transfer my fancy walk to Bill Hall.

I, Gloria Bruno, leave my worries over the mimeograph machine to the Emerald Staff.

I, Marie Buehler, leave my unsold candy to the chairman of next year's candy committee.

I, Dorothy Bullock, do bequeath my way with the boys to all the shy Junior girls.

I, William Caragher, leave my ever-ready laugh to Norman Ferrier.

I, Donald Celia, leave my ability to attract attention while speaking to Ted Steinmetz.

I, Thomas Chinn, cannot give up my job as soda-jerker, but I am willing to teach any Junior.

CLASS WILL

I, Madge Cianci, do bequeath my "pep" and vivacity to Emma Jackson.

I, Milton Cleland, assign my duty as "sleeper-in-chief" of English class to George Lincoln.

I, Flora Clymer, will my cowbell to anyone who promises to attend the football games regularly.

I, Betty Jane Cook, do bequeath a few inches of my height to Miss Hoffman.

I, John Cooper, willingly bequeath my "leather stockings" to Mr. Millikin.

I, Marie Cox, shyly give my quiet ways to Millie Zappacosta.

I, Joseph Crews, do bequeath my presidential duties to a deserving Junior.

I, Angelina Deldeo, leave my striking appearance to Theresa Capiano.

I, Wanda Dembroski, leave my knowledge of Home Economics to Olive Cianci.

I, Philomena Di Matteo, do bequeath my "collegiate" appearance and reserved disposition to Catherine Madore.

I, Leroy Dobson, endow my ability of dancing to Earl Foster.

I, Anne Dorsanio, leave my winning smile to Rita Sullivan.

I, June Ellis, bestow my ability as editor-in-chief of the Emerald to a worthy successor.

I, Frank Faville, leave my polished manner to John Fizzano.

I, Nick Fizzani, denote my carpentry abilities to William Dickerson.

I, Robert Forbes, hand down my never-ending line to any Junior boy who cares to use it.

I, Charles Frame, endow my pencil supply to Clarence Thompson.

I, Mary Grassano, request Dorothy Wamsley to take over my duties as "Faculty Helper."

I, Robert Guss, give my mechanical interests to Richard Zardus.

I, George Hadden, pass on my wild ways to Edward McFillin.

I, Raymond Hallman, transfer my way with the girls to Raymond Hood.

I, Lenore Heflin, do bequeath my love of singing to Alma Davis.

I, George Henry, leave my love of physics to David Clark.

I, Porter Howard, leave my suave sophistication to William Macauley.

I, Josephine Jennis, do bequeath my pleasant ways and ready smile to Evelyn Hirner.

I, Edward Klarmann, leave my frequent trips to the "Cabin" to Chester Bartusiak.

I, Walter Konyk, offer my love of argumentation to Wilson Van Ormer.

I, Amelia Kovac, leave my "snappy" wardrobe to Nina King.

I, Jennie Kozak, do bequeath my love of sports to Jennie Nagurne.

WASHINGTON TRIP

WON'T that bus ever come?" we thought as the Seniors impatiently waited in front of the school on the eventful morning of Monday, May 8. At last the two blue buses pulled up.

In scrambled the excited crowd and after a shout of farewell, we were off! There was not a clouded face in the carload as the trees whizzed by.

We drove up to the Franciscan Monastery just outside Washington. All in the group marvelled at the remarkable beauty of the buildings and gardens. After an all too short visit, we clambered aboard again, finally arriving at the Cairo Hotel for a delightful lunch.

"Shove off!" was the cry at exactly 1:30. So off we drove to the Lincoln Memorial where we had our pictures taken. From here we drove through the picturesque city of Alexandria to Mount Vernon where we spent an enjoyable forty-five minutes "browsing around." We approached the Arlington Cemetery through Fort Meyer. Visiting several buildings at the cemetery, we finally arrived at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the Amphitheater, where we witnessed the impressive ceremony of the changing of the guards. Then we went back to the hotel for a very welcome dinner.

At seven we again mounted the bus for the Congressional Library, after which we were en route for Glen Echo Amusement Park. You may be sure there were no complaints about having a dull time there! We disbursed to our rooms (to sleep?) at 11:30. So ended the first day.

Tired, but happy, with sleep gleaming from every eye, we were seated in our buses, ready to go at 8:30 on the second day. This morning was perhaps the most interesting, for we inspected the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

From there we went through the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. At the Washington Monument only a few were game enough to walk up—a few more walked down.

After seeing the Pan-American Union and the open rooms of the White House, we jaunted back to the Cairo for lunch and a short rest.

One-thirty found us again in our buses. We drove through the colorful streets of the city, passing St. Alban's Cathedral, the various Embassies and Legations, and the National Zoological Gardens. The stop at the Academy of Science was all too short, but we had to keep our appointment for placing a wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Silence reigned as our class president carefully and solemnly laid the wreath at the foot of the memorial. Cameras clicked—it was all very impressive. We returned to the hotel and after a short rest we had an exceptionally good dinner.

At seven-thirty the group was split into two divisions—one, under the supervision of Mr. Guss and Mr. Brewster went to the Ambassador Swimming Pool; the other, with Miss Friel and Mrs. Walton, went to the Keith Theater.

The next morning we regretfully packed our bags, preparatory to going home. The morning was spent viewing the Capitol, Supreme Court Building, and the Smithsonian Institute and seeing a few other points of interest. After we finished lunch, we left the Nation's Capitol with many regrets.

Our visit to Annapolis proved grand. The dress parade was beautiful.

Twilight was falling as we arrived at Havre de Grace, where a delicious dinner was ready for us. Tired but happy we arrived home at 10:00 o'clock. A crowd was waiting at the school to greet us. So ended a most enjoyable trip.

The Seniors wish to extend their heartfelt thanks to Mrs. Walton, Miss Friel, Mr. Brewster, and Mr. Guss who accompanied them, and to all others who have made this trip possible.

YOU

IF TIMID individuals could only realize the power that is implanted in each one of us, then these people would have more ambition—the urge to do something. Instead, they fall upon the plaint: "I am just one man," or "I am just one woman. What can I do?"

Florence Nightingale was but one woman, yet her work was inspirational in the formation of the Red Cross. How little would have been done to heal and relieve the wounded during the Crimean War if this English nurse had held back because she was "just one woman." Little would be known about radium today if Madame Curie had folded her arms when her husband passed away, and had not continued his marvelous work. You may say that these are exceptional women. This is quite true. Florence Nightingale said that she had faith, while Madame Curie said that she had confidence, and little else. But to her work each applied her fullest aspiration and trust.

Was that mother exceptional who, when her six-year old boy came home from school one day with a note from his teacher suggesting that the boy be taken out of school as he was "too stupid to learn," said that she would teach her son herself. She did, and the result was Thomas A. Edison!

Another mother had to take the place of her husband in teaching her son. She read to him the achievements of the great men of his time and stirred his ambition. The finished product of this woman who was just a "home body" was Robert E. Lee.

"I am just a home body busy with my daily tasks," is the saying of many a woman. Abraham Lincoln's stepmother was just a plain woman, but she taught and inspired the son of her husband. Lincoln, when asked what was the greatest book that he had ever read, replied, "My Mother."

We cannot seem to comprehend that the great achievements of the world have always begun with one person. Every institution that has contributed to American progress has been built upon the activities of a single individual. In our country we have been dominated by the obsession that we cannot work alone, that we can work only in organization. Looking at most organizations, the driving power or force may usually be traced to one individual, or at most times, two. Seldom are there more.

Another important factor is the idea, "You are greater than I am." There are no great nor small, but we fancy others greater than ourselves because they have accomplished more than we. The trouble lies in the fact that we have no faith in ourselves, or we have very little. We do not realize the possibilities of the positions which we hold. This factor may be clearly seen by the teacher who said to a mother showing interest in the school, "I am just a teacher." Then the vision came to her that if a mother shows great interest in the school, the teacher should show more. In a few months she became the principal of the school, and the school greatly profited by her instigation.

You often come in contact with young men who busy themselves with thoughts of whether they can do "this" or "that." When such thoughts come to us, we should say that God has placed us on this earth for some purpose, and we must do our utmost to get the best out of life. Once we are convinced of the single fact that we have been put here for a definite purpose, then we will try to strive for the highest goal.

A man of little faith says, "I am nothing"; but a man who says, "I am everything," and then goes to prove it, is the man whom we should admire and praise.

Prize Story

FATE LENDS A HAND

BILL DREW stared blankly out of the window. He was a tall, pleasant-looking young man in his early twenties. To look at him one could not guess the conflict of emotions which surged inside of him. It seemed to him that his mind was always racing back to the events of the accident. He could see himself driving through the dense fog and heavy rain. He remembered the whistle of the train and remembered his foot searching frantically for the brakes. And then—darkness. For days he had been in that same darkness while his body was wracked with pain.

Now he was physically well again. The doctors had told him that he had been very fortunate to escape with his life. But fate was not wholly kind to him. When he daily insisted that they remove the bandages from his eyes, they told him. He would never see again.

Bill had been home for three months now. He was not the gay, carefree lad of days gone by, but a dull, melancholy shadow of his former self. Sometimes he thought that he would go mad in his loneliness. He had nothing to do—just think. Always thinking. To think that he was blind and could never see the sunshine, the birds, or trees, or flowers again! He who had loved nature so much could never more enjoy its beauty and fragrance. Only those who have been suddenly plunged into the abyss of endless darkness can imagine the tragic world that Bill had entered.

He was so absorbed in his thoughts that he did not hear the door open and a child softly tip-toe into the room. He became aware of her presence when she took his hand into her small one and said, "Are you ready to go now, Uncle Bill?" When he hesitated a little she asked, "Don't you remember I promised to take you for a walk and describe everything to you? It is such a pleasant day. I am sure you would enjoy the walk."

His spirits rose at the sound of her voice. "Of course, I remember, Margie dear," he answered. "I was waiting for you. Shall we go now?"

The two left the house together and were soon in the street. It was a strange picture indeed—this little bright-eyed, dark-haired girl of eight guiding a young man through the traffic of the busy streets. Little Margie chatted gaily all the way and expertly led him away from the noise into the park. Soon they were walking along the driveway under the big trees. Bill could feel the warm spring sun upon him and he could smell the good clean air. He felt much better being here among the haunts of nature that he loved so dearly.

Little Margie was Bill's favorite niece. She seemed to understand him better than anyone else. Her vivid description of the things he loved made him almost see them. Once he had dreamed of becoming a famous author. Now all that seemed so far away. He had only little Margie to help him and to make life bearable.

Every day Margie took her beloved uncle for a walk. Oftentimes they went to the park, and sometimes they just walked the city streets. They even went window-shopping. When Margie was not in school, the two were constant companions. Bill often thought, "She is such a dear. I really don't think that I could live without her."

And then one afternoon when the two were out for their daily walk, fate again stepped into the picture. Bill Drew heard the screeching of brakes, a child scream, and a number of excited voices. He understood that they must be in the middle of the street. Suddenly he realized that Margie was no longer holding his hand. He was completely bewildered and did not know which way to turn. Then someone gently took his arm and guided him away from the noisy crowd.

"Margie, where are you?" he called.

"Margie is all right," a strange young voice answered him kindly. "She was leading you across the street and did not see our car approaching. She was hit by the car, but she was not seriously hurt, I know." The girl's voice was gentle and soothing. He liked it.

"I want to go to her," said Bill. "Please take me to Margie."

In a few minutes the two young people had reached the hospital. The doctors told Bill that his little idol was not seriously injured and would return home in a few days. He was so relieved that he began to sob.

Soon he became aware of the fact that the girl who had been so thoughtful was still beside him. "I want to thank you for your kindness," he said, struggling for self-control. "May I ask who you are?"

"Of course," the girl smilingly replied. "I am Dorothy Norse. My brother was driving the car that hit your niece. I am so sorry for what has happened that I want to do something to help you. I understand we have taken your guardian and protector away from you for a time. You must realize that Margie is much too young to assume the responsibility of taking care of you."

"Yes, I know," Bill said dismally. "But what can I do? Margie is all I have. You see, her mother works hard to take care of us—Margie, Granny, and I." Before he was aware of the fact, he was telling Miss Norse all about himself, the accident that destroyed his sight, and his ambition to be an author.

Dorothy nodded understandingly. "I told you I wanted to help you, and now I feel I must. You understand, don't you? I know of a school where you can learn to read braille. You say you are able to typewrite. That will be of great assistance to you in your work. Your ambition need not perish just because of your condition. Think of the many men who have made themselves famous after they became blind. You are handicapped, I know, but I am sure you can succeed. Won't you let me help you?" Dorothy pleaded.

Bill left Dorothy with a promise to phone her when he had decided what to do. Right now he was all mixed up. He was very much depressed when he reached home. He was greatly concerned about Margie's condition. He knew that he could not always be dependent upon her. The events of the day had told him that.

Once more he was staring unseeingly out of the window. He must become adjusted to this new world in which he was living. The things which he had held lightly before now seemed of grave importance to him. He had his whole life before him and he must decide what to do. Was he to go on living this solitary life which did not go beyond his own physical needs, or could he recapture his old ambition?

Suddenly new hope surged in Bill's breast. He was certain that he could write stories and thereby support himself and possibly someone else. Perhaps that someone might be Dorothy Norse.

But he must study a great deal first. He had decided. Yes, he would accept the assistance of Miss Norse. His heart was singing as he felt his way to the telephone to call her.

PRESIDENT RELEASES FIGURES FOR 1950

Washington, D. C.—Joseph Leslie Crews, President of the United States, made a startling statement today concerning the budget for 1950. "I have drawn up the budget and I intend to balance it if I have to sit on the other end myself!"

Secretary of the Treasury, Madam Lazinsky, approved of the President's budget "whole-heartedly." Major General Frank Kunkle of the United States Army expressed his pleasure at the appropriation set aside for new army uniforms. Political "boss" Wilbur Wamsley, generally pessimistic, also seemed pleased with the new budget.

COSMETIC COMPANY AND DRESS SHOP COMBINE

Paris, France—The Rene Dresse Shoppe and the Chic Cosmetic Company have combined and are now operating an exclusive, modernistic women's shop. In the dress department the mannequins, Amelia Kovac and Gloria Bruno, model the gorgeous creations designed by Rene MacIntyre and made by Wanda Dembroski. Miss Angelina Deldeo and Miss Helen Boretsky demonstrate the cosmetics.

Two novel features are the check room, managed by Miss Edith Levinson, and the singing by Dot Lobb to carry out the motto, "Service with a Song."

The sales have been so outstanding since these features have been offered that Norma Owens has been hired as efficiency expert.

SALE OF CLOCKS SOARS TO NEW HIGH

Sleepytown, Ga.—Mr. Milton Cleland, president of the Gentle Tinkle Alarm Clock Company, reported that an extraordinary increase in business has resulted since Raymond Hallman was appointed sales manager. Mr. Hallman modestly declared, "I owe my success to my energetic secretaries, Marie Cox and Maria Schmidt."

Mr. Hallman gladly consented to a demonstration of the new alarm device which awakens sleepers gently and painlessly. The office boy, Henry McParland, set the alarm and placed the clock on the desk of a sleeping stenographer, Bertha Winsor. Miss Winsor awoke with no ill effects.

BUSINESS SCHOOL OPENS

Busyburb, N. Y.—A novel commercial training college, complete in every detail, will be established by Miss Katherine Roma after her marriage to her former employer.

In addition to the customary secretarial training courses taught by Margaret Lavin, Laura Krajewski, Veronica Oleinchak, and Sybil Walls, a course in bank management will be conducted by Vera Tomsky and Doris Wager. Dorothy Bullock will give lessons on sales talks, while Nora Maginnis and Eileen Montgomery will show pupils how to be telephone operators.

"All we need now," Miss Roma stated, "are the pupils."

WORLD PREMIERE HELD IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, Cal.—The world premiere of the new cinema, "Hollywood Jamboree," starring Margaret Montgomery and Thomas Chinn and directed by the famous feminine director of many well known films, Betty Van Ormer, was held last night in Tony Kuhlberg's Siamese Theater.

The most outstanding scene in the picture is the one in which the Ridley Township Chorusters, Leroy Dobson, Charles Frame, Charlotte Adams, Mary Jane Taylor, and Anna Wilson, sing "Harlem Rhapsody."

Among the many actresses present were Frances Thomas, famous for her southern accent ever since she was tested for "Gone with the Wind" in 1939, and glamorous Katherine Stilling, who was accompanied by her press agent, Bob Guss.

Many other prominent people were there to give their opinion of the film. Amneris (Miss Madge Cianci), the famous hair stylist, was present with Neil Abbott, millionaire "playboy." Harman Palmer, well-known "yes-man," when asked if he enjoyed the production, replied enthusiastically, "Yes, sir!"

ARTIST WINS LOUVRE PRIZE

San Francisco, Cal.—Critics chose "Sweet and Lovely," a portrait of Anne Dorsanio, painted by Miss Elsa Voigt, as the best art work of this type done this year. Clinton Price, famed commercial artist, awarded the prize, a new automobile, to Miss Voigt.

PRINCIPAL REVEALS PLANS FOR NEXT TERM

Ridley Township, Pa.—Dr. June Ellis, Ph.D., principal of Ridley Township High School, announced today her plans for next year. The extinguished Professor William Cargher, L.L.LL., will be employed to teach Latin, while Miss Flora Clymer has accepted the position of school nurse. Several distinguished lecturers have been engaged to speak in assembly programs throughout the year. Miss Evelyn Stanley, eminent child psychologist, will speak on: "Shall We Clothe a Child to Match His Age, or Age a Child to Match His Clothes?". Miss Natalie Petrone will give a review of this year's best-seller, Those Were the Daze, by Elva Mae Brookes. Life among the coast guards will be explained by John Lister, renowned for his many exciting adventures in this organization. The science department will be honored by a visit from the prominent chemist and physicist, Professor Porter Lorenzo Howard. Professor Howard insists he has established a revolutionary law which will necessitate a complete change in the study of Physics despite the disagreements of George Henry and Charles Kunkle, rival scientists.

Catherine Wells, dietitian of the high school, disclosed the fact that the school has renewed its contract with the Oakview Poultry Farm owned by Leonard Stanley, agreeing to buy all eggs from this company.

Miss Wells stated that the success of the egg salad sandwiches is due to the strictly fresh eggs used.

ATHLETIC BENEFIT TO BE HELD

New York, N. Y.—The outstanding figures in the world of athletics will lend themselves to the cause of charity in a series of events to be held in Jefferson Square Garden.

The first event will be a baseball game starring Bill Vitulli, former All-American Fullback, who is now playing as first baseman for the New York Yankees.

The next night the feminine athletes will have a chance to shine in a hockey game with the women's team from Australia. The American participants, under the management of Mary Scopp, are Betty Jane Cook, Frances Sorzano, Agnes Roche, and Mary Grassano. As an added attraction, Grant Rigby, ace "dare-devil," will perform feats of daring in his auto racer.

The last event will be a basketball game starring Alex Wyshyvanuk, famous during his college days as the most outstanding basketball player in the United States; Ralph Schlitsey, former Olympic swimmer; and college coaches, George Melanchuk and Steve Woyda.

VAN SWANK ENGAGES POPULAR ORCHESTRA

Miami, Fla.—E. N. and Her Royal Ten began a three months' engagement at the Van Swank Club last evening. The leader of the orchestra, Miss Ethel Nagy, features such accomplished musicians as Isabelle Rohn, violinist, and Philomena Di Matteo, accordionist. Patrons were delighted with the unique manner in which the lovely Lenore Heflin rendered her vocal selections. Bob Forbes, the celebrated male vocalist, was especially well received.

As an added attraction Miss Nagy presented the international dance team, Sloan and Kozak, in the modern interpretation of the old-fashioned jitterbug dance which was so popular ten years ago.

FAMOUS EXPLORER RETURNS

Zooville, Ill.—Captain John Cooper in an airplane piloted by Mr. Jimmy Morrison, famed aviator, returned today from Africa where he studied the antics of the anthropoids (monkeys, to you).

Captain Cooper was accompanied by Edward Klarman, National Scout Commissioner of the B. S. A.; Paul Williams, editor of a popular magazine; and Frank Faville, radio announcer, who has been broadcasting a daily description of the exploration.

In Hotchaboo, the hot spot of the African jungle, Captain Cooper was greeted by several of his high school classmates. John Modesti, building contractor, and his assistants, Clarence Vincent, John Webb, and Edward Brown, entertained the adventurers in one of the modernistic huts they have built for the natives.

The reception was interrupted by the arrival of two breezy salesmen, George Hadden, who oversold his quota of oil heaters to the natives, and Nick Fizzani, who followed him up by literally flooding the Zulu land with oil for the heaters. The salesmen described their work as "a cinch."

GRAND OPENING OF MURPHY'S HABERDASHERY

Tyson, Pa.—A new haberdashery shop was opened today on the Rue de la Foue under the management of Lawrence Murphy. Mr. Murphy has hired Walter Konyk and Vince Ramsey as his assistants. Their motto is, "Don't go elsewhere to get stung. Come here."

Buy your hamburg sandwiches at Betty Armstrong's modernistic stand—"The meeting place of the elite."

FOOTBALL

CONSIDERING the lack of experience among most of the boys on the squad, the football season was fairly successful, as four out of nine games were won. Victories were enjoyed at the expense of Prospect Park 12-0, St. Roberts 34-0, Clifton Heights 6-0, and Eddystone 6-0. We were defeated by Chester 19-0, Media 26-0, P. S. DuPont 12-6, Collingdale 12-0, and Darby 26-7.

Bill Dickerson was awarded a position on the all-county team, and Bill Vitulli, who was elected honorary captain by the boys, was awarded second team honors.

The team owes much of its success to the able coaching of Mr. Brewster, who was assisted by Mr. Pawling and Mr. Donato.

Next year's team will suffer greatly through graduation, but since many of the squad are underclassmen, the prospects for the future look promising.

BASKETBALL

After a fairly successful football season, next and foremost in Ridley Township athletics is basketball. Led by co-captains Alex Wysyvianuk and Ralph Schlitsey, and nobly assisted by Stanley Janicki, who was fourth in Suburban League scoring, the team, out of a twenty-three game schedule, lost but ten games. This record is to be proudly thought of, considering the loss of material due to graduation. Each member on the squad is to be highly commended for his splendid work and high brand of ball playing.

The squad won two games from Collingdale, Media, Prospect Park, St. Roberts, and one game from Darby, Ridley Park, Swarthmore, Yeadon, and the Alumni.

Its losses came twice from Eddystone and Glen-Nor and once from Darby, Ridley Park, Swarthmore, P. S. Du Pont, Wilmington, and Yeadon.

In the Annual Kiwanis Tournament, Eddystone, defeating us for the third successive time, eliminated our quintet in the first round.

The team may be consoled by the fact that the teams that defeated them were opponents at whose hands defeat was not distasteful but a lesson.

Again we congratulate them for their spirit and loyalty and for their eagerness to represent Ridley Township in outstanding fashion.

TRACK

At the beginning of this season there seemed to be some question as to whether Ridley Township would continue to compile their fine record on the cinder paths. Were the boys too young and inexperienced? Coach Di Giulio didn't think so and now has succeeded in turning out one of the best well-balanced teams in the history of the school.

In the field events Bill Dickerson is responsible for the weights; Jack Herbert, for the pole-vault; Arthur Thomas, for the high jump; and Earle Foster, for the broad jump. On the cinders Dick Zardus and Earle Foster are supreme. Harman Palmer holds the mile and the half-mile honors.

The boys' uneasiness in the first meet with Glen-Nor resulted in a victory for the opposition. Then, gaining confidence, they romped over Eddystone.

Our team was placed at the short end of the score in a triangular meet with Media and Springfield. Against Collingdale our boys looked very much superior as they built up a one-sided score. P. S. du Pont and Wilmington were the victors of our last two meets by very close margins.

This year's team has been the most outstanding track team ever to represent Ridley Township.

HOCKEY

LOOKING at the scores of the games played this year, one would say our girls had a very poor season; but considering the enjoyment gained in playing this sport, one can say it was successful.

Practice was rather late in starting this year, but Miss Johnston, the coach, managed to get the team ready to face their strong opponents. The first game was with Darby and ended in a 4-0 victory for the latter. The team was gaining experience, however, as Ellis College won by only a 3-0 score and Collingdale, by a 2-0 score. The girls received quite a setback when Glen-Nor defeated them 6-0. Ridley Park won by the small margin of 2-1 and Eddystone, the champions, were very surprised when they could score no more than two goals to win 2-0.

Elsa Voigt was chosen by the girls to be their captain for the season.

BASKETBALL

Coach "Hal" Brewster, turning his coaching ability from Senior High football to Junior High basketball, raised hopes high after his team was victorious over Sharon Hill in the first game of the season. But because of lack of experience, his boys then went into a losing streak that didn't stop until the end of the schedule. Such teams as Ridley Park, Collingdale, Smedley, Darby and Lansdowne, showed their supremacy by taking two games from us. To Sharon Hill one game was dropped.

The most exciting game during the season was the second game played at Collingdale. The lead changed several times, and the victory wasn't decided until the closing seconds of the game, the score being Collingdale 18, Ridley Township 16.

Captain Ivan Crews and John Jackson were a fine pair of guards, the latter being the team's highest scorer.

All of the Junior High Varsity will move to the Senior High next year. This doesn't worry Coach Brewster, for he expects excellent material from the seventh and eighth grades.

Watch out, opponents of next year.

BASKETBALL

Success cannot be measured by victories alone. Therefore, even though our girls on the basketball team won only two games, they were successful in that they maintained the fine record of good sportsmanship which former Ridley Township teams have established.

Miss Johnston, the coach, led her girls to two victories over Ellis College. The team fell before such strong opponents as Eddystone, Clifton Heights, Collingdale, Prospect Park, Darby, Ridley Park, and Notre Dame.

Even though these seniors: Betty Jane Cook, honorary captain; Flora Clymer, Rene MacIntyre, Elsa Voigt, and Frances Sorzano will graduate, it is hoped that with the experience gained by the younger players, we may look forward to a successful season next year.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

MRS. ELLEN H. RICHARDS, who is called the mother of Home Economics, gave Home Economics its first recognition as such in 1908, just before the Chautauqua Conference, when she was asked to present a paper before the National Education Council, and her masterly treatment of the subject won for Home Economics its true place in the teaching world as the fourth R—Right Living—to be incorporated in the education of the people. Since that time, the work has gained a firm foundation in the minds of thinking people.

Health, art, and beauty of life are included in the program. The finer forms of social intercourse, the development of gracious womanhood, also have their place in the home economics program. The public still recognizes the family as the unit and the home as the center and wants all that was best in the old forms of family life represented in the new. It should be enriched by the discoveries of science, the development of art, the right economic and social ideas, and it must be permeated by the spirit of service and loyalty to the highest ideals.

At the present time, there are many fields open to girls such as social service workers, dietitians, visiting housekeepers, hostesses, demonstrators, designers, illustrators, modelers, lecturers, alteration experts, tea room managers, hotel managers, etc. Cooperation has begun to be established with the nursing world, the medical world, and the industrial world.

Home economics work is beginning in Australia, Japan, China, South Africa, India, Turkey, and New Zealand. This means that home economics is preparing for its duty and responsibility; that it glimpses its opportunity; visions its real service; understands the meaning of its mission to energize, vitalize, and spiritualize the everyday life of the man and woman.

BOYS' VOCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

RIDLEY TOWNSHIP has taken the essential steps to provide each and every boy and girl of high school age in the township with the necessary fundamental and elementary principles of a vocation. When you are graduated from the Vocational Course at Ridley Township High School, it does not necessarily mean that you have learned a trade completely. The purpose of the Vocational Course is to prepare a boy to progress more rapidly and to pursue a definite trade after graduation.

The Vocational Department provides two definite courses—machine shop and wood shop. The machine shop, which is equipped with the most modern machinery, is considered not only the best in Eastern Pennsylvania, but also one of the best in the state. Mr. Gilbert, machine shop instructor, has had a wide experience in the trade, and his practical and theoretical knowledge is highly evaluated. Various interesting, useful projects are made in this shop after you have received, in the junior high school, the preliminary training for advanced work.

Under the guidance of Mr. Guss, head of the Vocational Department, the boys in the wood shop combine four woodworking trades: cabinet making, furniture making, wood pattern making, and carpentry.

At the beginning of the year the boys make projects suitable for gifts or for use in their own homes. After Christmas vacation, they are given instruction in wood pattern making.

About the first of April, attention is turned to carpentry, which consists of various type constructions used in building and form work. Each year it is planned to construct some definite project such as a garage, concession house, bicycle shed, and several other buildings. In conjunction with this work, alteration is also done.

If a boy absorbs the knowledge he has gained in school, he can make more progress than a boy who has had no previous vocational training. There is no assurance that jobs will be secured for graduates, but efforts are made to contact industries for any jobs available.

*"Then shall I see it not too great, nor small,
To suit my spirit and to prove my powers;
Then shall I cheerful quiet the laboring hours,
And cheerful turn, when the long shadows fall
At eventide, to play and love and rest,
Because I know for me my work is best."*
